EDITOR IN DISTRESS

There's nothing like going back to your parents for some much needed rest and relaxation, plus lots of home cooked meals. It's a long 5 1/2 drive to my parents place in West Texas but it's worth all the free food my mom gives me to bring back to Dallas. Besides the rest I also got a chance to think and clear my head of things and people that have been stressing me out lately. If only I had the time and money to hit the only strip club in that area. Pretty curious to check out the dancers in that area of Texas, plus it sure would have cheered me up.

Before I left for West Texas I did managed to sneak in a little titty bar action. I went to Jaguars Dallas Wednesday to check out their new specials and brought along Colleen so she could work her sales charm. Then Thursday we hit the buffet at Silver City. I saw some new girl on stage when I got there, but sadly she was off stage by the time I brought my food to the table. I guess I'll have to go back soon and look for her.

I did manage to catch The Accused at The Prophet Bar before I left out of town.. Sadly the turnout was next to none, but the band didn't let that discourage them and played a highly energetic set. Plus there was still a rowdy pit, even if it was only four people.

While at my parents I managed to watch two entertaining sports events. Saturday night I watched the WEC fights on the Versus channel. Lots of back and forth MMA action especially on the main fight. Then Sunday was the Cowboys game. I thought for a few minutes I was going to drive back to Dallas bummed that the Cowboys lost, but they pulled it together in overtime with an amazing catch and run by Miles Austin for a touchdown. I'm curious to read Two Dogs take on it.

This is the last week of the State Fair and I have yet to go. I need to eat some fried food! So, I better head down there. Plus we got the Red River Shootout with Texas vs OU. Is this the last year at the Cotton Bowl? I can't remember. I found some funny OU jokes. Check them out on page 15. Also, if you go to the Texas/OU game Saturday, you can use your ticket stub to get free entry at Silver City.

If you're into dirty yet sexy rock n roll than you should head to The Cavern Friday, Oct. 16 and see The Red 100's perform. I've been checking them out on Myspace lately. Musically it reminds me of early Lenny Kravitz and vocally the singer reminds me a lot of Jimi Hendrix. The Cavern is located at 1914 Lower Greenville, Dallas.

Oh, go tell Dennis Hof of The Bunny Ranch Happy Birthday if he's your friend on Myspace, facebook or whatever. - Gil Meet The New Boss?

How would you like to work for Rush Limbaugh? That is the question that a roster full of St. Louis Rams are asking themselves, as the conservative talk radio icon is in talks to purchase the NFL franchise, along with St. Louis Blues owner Dave Checketts. The move has caused a firestorm of controversy, with the executive director of the players' union leading the opposition.

In an email to The NFL's executive committee, NFL Players Association Executive Director DeMaurice Smith wrote, "I've spoken to the Commissioner [Roger Goodell] and I understand that this ownership consideration is in the early stages. But sport in America is at its best when it unifies, gives all of us reason to cheer, and when it transcends. Our sport does exactly that when it overcomes division and rejects discrimination and hatred." The opposition no doubt stems, at least in part, from a memorable 2003 gaff from the talk show host that cost him his brief employment as an NFL analyst.

Referencing Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Donovan McNabb, Limbaugh said then "I think what we've had here is a little social concern in the NFL. The media has been very desirous that a black quarterback do well," Limbaugh said. "There is a little hope invested in McNabb, and he got a lot of credit for the performance of this team that he didn't deserve. The defense carried this team." This was seen by many as a suggestion on Limbaugh's part that McNabb undeservedly benefited from the equivalent of affirmative action.

Reverend Al Sharpton sent a letter to NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell as well, arguing that Limbaugh has been divisive and "anti-NFL" in some of his comments. Reverend Jesse Jackson echoed that sentiment, saying that Limbaugh had made his wealth "appealing to the fears of whites" with an unending line of insults against blacks and other minorities. "The National Football League has set high standards for racial justice and inclusion," Jackson said. "He should not have the privilege of owning an NFL franchise — and it is a privilege."

The criticism of Limbaugh's attempt to purchase The Rams also extended to the players. New York Giants defensive end Mathias Kiwanuka told

The New York Daily News "...if it goes through, I can tell you where I am not going to play." Asked about the aspirations of the man who once suggested that he got a free pass because of his race, Donovan McNabb said: "If he's rewarded to buy them, congratulations to him. But I won't be in St. Louis any time soon."

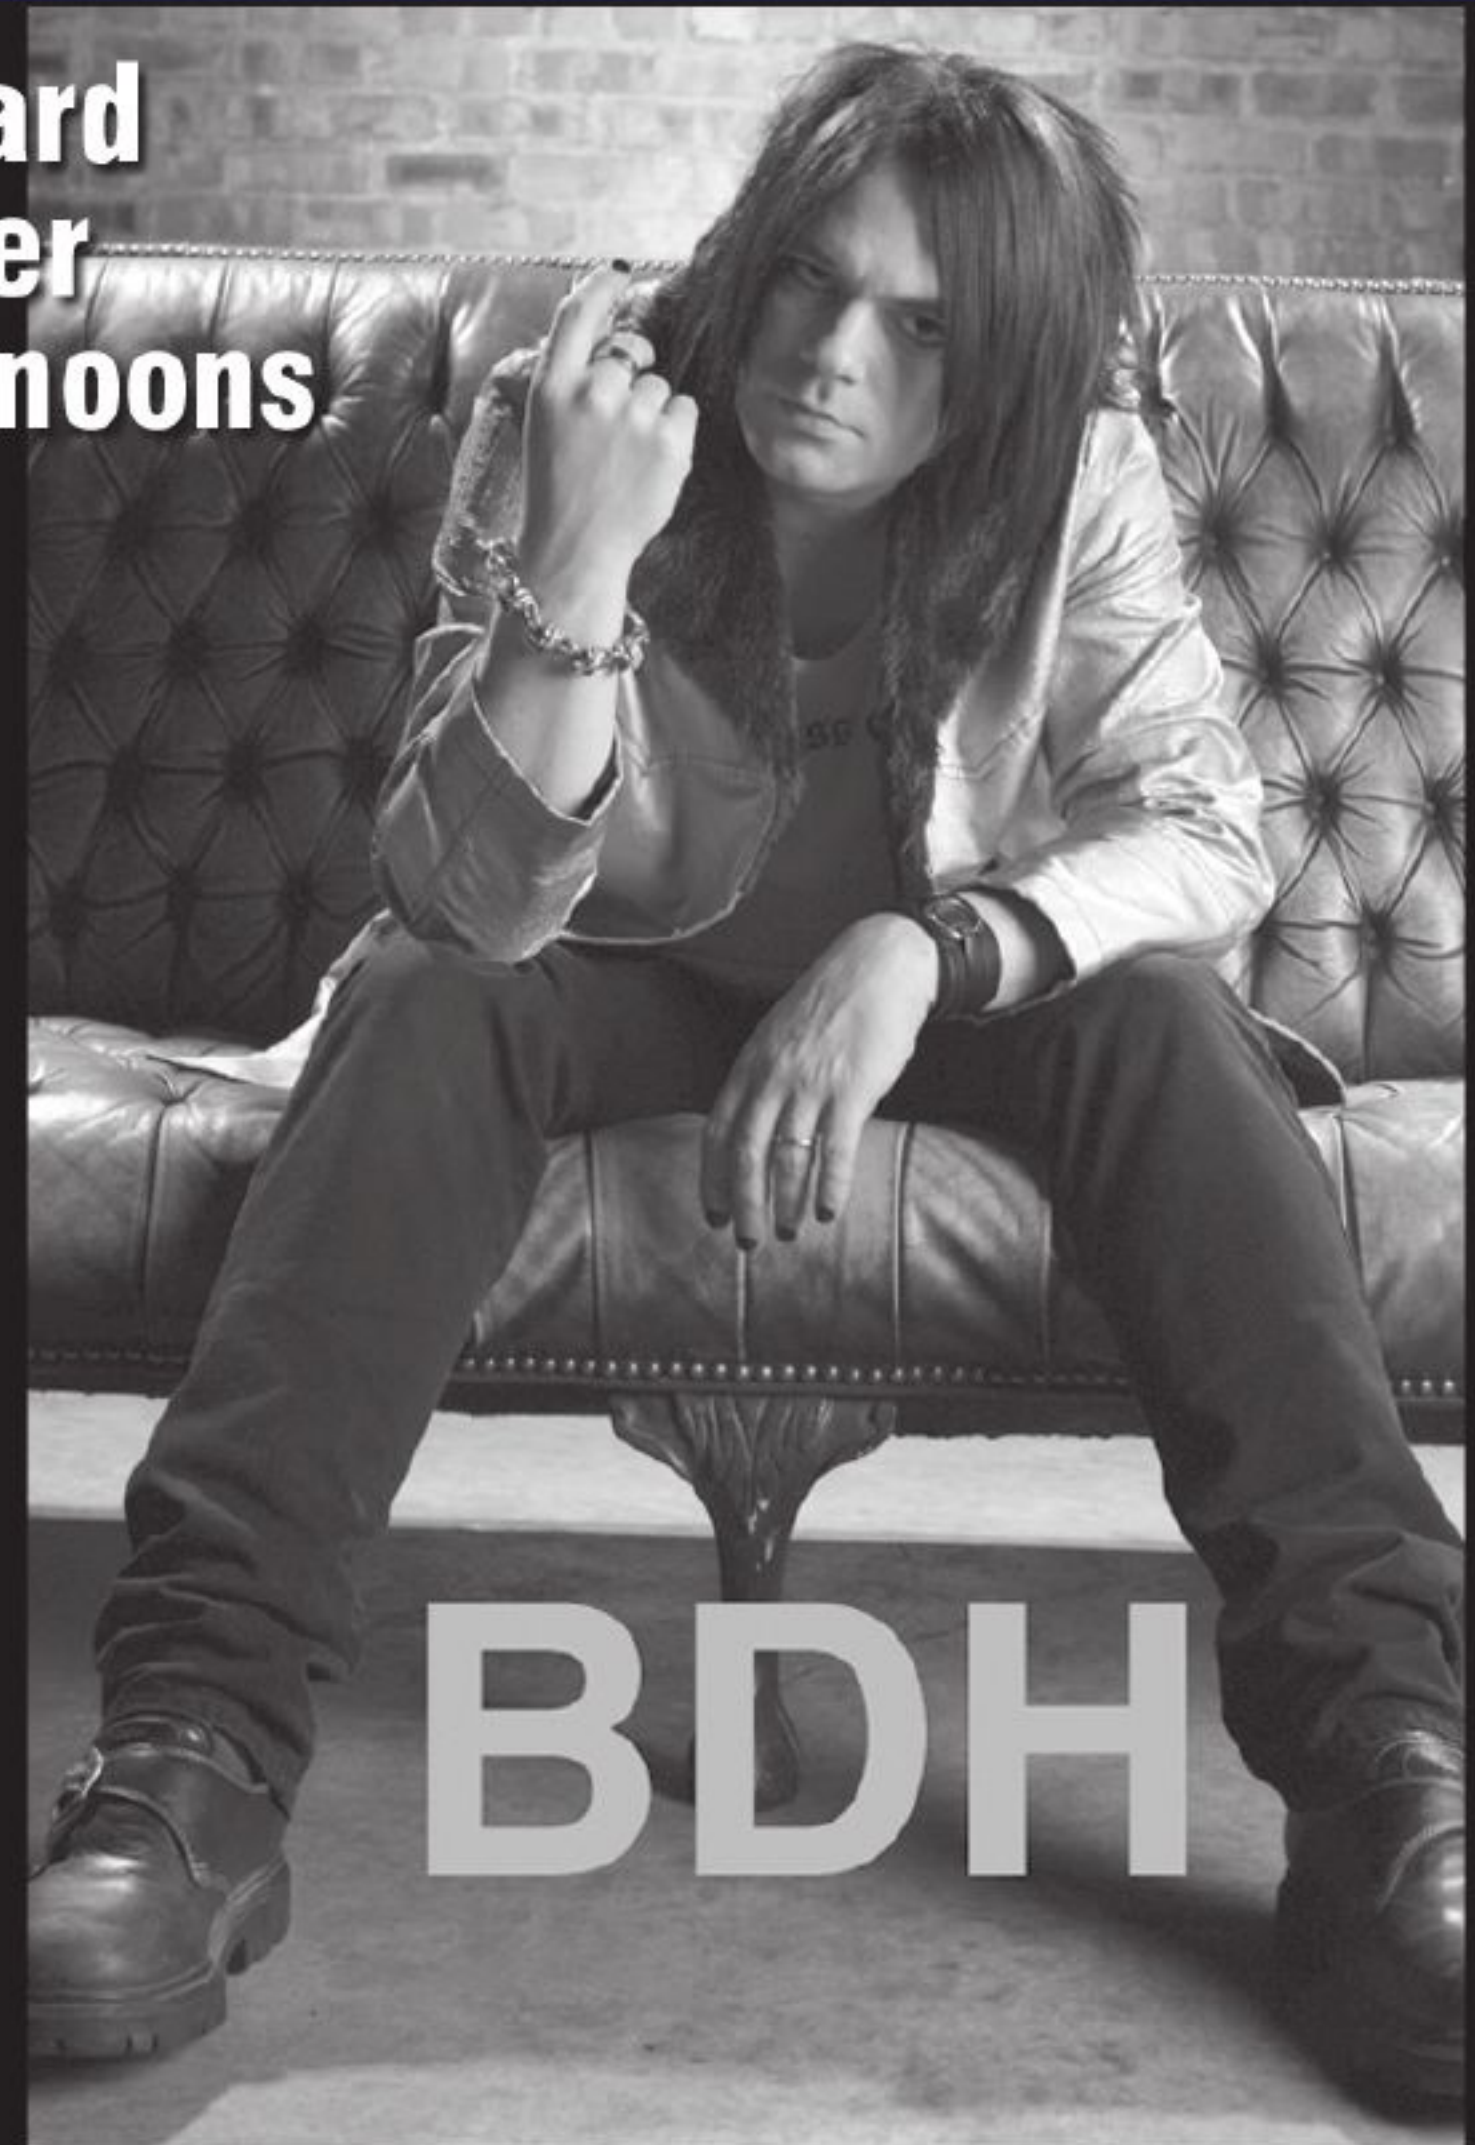

I certainly understand the distain for Limbaugh. I couldn't imagine working for him either. However, my question is this: If the premise of the privilege of inclusion in The NFL is causing some to suggest that Limbaugh does not meet an acceptable standard, where then was the outrage over the reinstatement of Michael Vick. Comparing Vick and Limbaugh, it is Vick would I would designate as an irreparable psychopath. Limbaugh, while being an affront to compassionate government and populist politics, certainly cannot be seen in the same mentally deranged light. His troubles with prescription medication abuse should make him more of a fit into The NFL fraternity, and not less of one. What then, is the difference between the two?

It is the fact that union members still stand together. The aforementioned players and union heads are comfortable criticizing Limbaugh because he is not one of them. If Limbaugh was a twenty five year old football stud on track to sign a record breaking deal to play for an NFL team that would drive up the asking prices of players across the board, you can bet that you would not hear a critical word from anyone on the union's side. The NFL players union would have represented Pol Pot if they thought he could throw a football. If Donovan McNabb or any other NFL superstar had taken the stand against Michael Vick that some are taking against Limbaugh, the commissioner would never have allowed Vick to step back on to the field for fear of alienating his cash cows. Instead, they remained silent with the resigning of a psycho while voicing dissent at the mention of a partisan blowhard.

BARKIN' OUT LOUD

by Pat "Two Dogs" Snow

part of our lives.

Let's change the gears up a tad, and I have to admit, even for a guy who's smoothed a lot of life's rough spots out with his chin, what we got comin' even has me up a tree.

Everyone out there knows I'm a tailgatin' and backyard grillin' fool, and besides cooking it up I'm invited to grillin' events all the time. Not only do I get the tried and true but I also try a heck'eva lot of new and/or different foods and recipes. I got one comin' at ya that I'm just not gonna open up the old pie hole for.

Do you know how something goes from odd to an accepted odd? It happens when something worse comes along.

Maybe in caveman days people were forced to eat raw meat and stuff but why do it today? Hey, if you wanna call fish eggs "caviar" and charge a lot of money and people will pay for it, ok, I get it, there's dummies out there. Organ meat, raw seafood, all that stuff has become acceptably odd.

Well, in my opinion something worse has come along that makes all that stuff go from acceptably odd to normal country cookin'. Something weirder than raw fish eyes and far more costly than caviar. Kopi Luwak.

You read that right, Kopi Luwak. What is it? It's THE most expensive coffee on the planet. Sells between $100 (if you can find it) and $600 per pound. Why? Only about 1,000 lbs makes it into the world market annually. What's so special about it? It has a rich flavor and no bitterness. How does it get this way?

Hang onto your drawers this one's gonna floor ya: its cat poop coffee.

You read that right. Cat poop coffee.

Seems there's some felines out there called civets that are extremely fond of red coffee cherries. They don't want raw, they don't want almost ripe, and they don't want overripe, they only want perfectly ripe, and they know exactly which those are.

Seems the civets digest the outer layer but the inner bean remains intact and absorbs the special enzymes inside the civet's stomach thus breaking down the proteins that give coffee its bitter taste. The beans complete their journey, plopping to the ground, whence upon the farmers "harvest" said beans, wash them off, and give them a very light roast so as not to destroy the flavors. You bet'cha. A cuppa that'd ruin sittin' around the ol' campfire.

C'mon now, folks, a little common sense here. If it looks ugly and smells ugly, just because some yahoo calls it a fancy name and charges a very high price, you don't need to be puttin' it in your mouth. That isn't sophistication and you aren't better'n your neighbors for doin' it.

See, and you thought nothin' could take your minds off of the problems the Cowboys are havin'. Compared to drinkin' that stuff you'd watch Romo pass into double coverage all day long, huh.

Speaking of the Cowboys, the question's still out there on just what kinda team we got. You know, some folks are more clever than they look, others look more clever than what they are. Which one of those applies to the Cowboys? Are they really a better team than what we've seen or are we finding out they're not as good as touted?

Years ago there were times when my youthful enthusiasms would outdo my common sense. Like, I once destroyed a convention when I acted in defiance of their slogan: it's not the system that fails the people, it's the people that fail the system.

Take one of these so called offensive "systems". A lot of these coaches buy into these so much that they let them dictate what play they'll run under certain conditions. That system talks about time left on the clock, down and yardage, score, those types of things. It doesn't talk about what people you've got available to conduct the play.

The prime example here would be Garrett's call in Denver at the end of the game to call a specific play. Twice he ran that play, twice it was to Sam Hurd, and twice defender Champ Bailey defeated it. Garrett's explanation? He says you have to decide whether the play you called was a good one or bad one based on the situation, NOT whether it succeeded. He refuses to concede that putting a fourth level receiver up against an all pro defender wasn't a good decision. That, my friends, was the system being used, and not taking into consideration the players available.

Do I think the Cowboys still have a shot at a good season? Yes, but under one condition: what I want to see is the determination and the will to win. Both sides of the ball, start to finish. They do that and this could be a very good season.

Let's talk up the Dallas Stars for a mo.

Are you enjoying them already? If you like hockey, you sure oughta be. I am. Do they make me nervous? Oh heck yeah. But, you know what, it's great to get that edgy feeling again.

I like that they are staying focused despite usually being down a goal early in the games, and having to tie it up late to force OT. They keep coming. Man, that's a very good sign, a really very good sign. Now, in the first four games they were in three OT's, which all went to that lame shootout, and they lost all three. They still came away with a point, but if shootouts are going to stay, they need to get better at them.

How's the goalie situation hit ya? The backup,

We all know the history of professional sports is loaded with stories of legends and failures, heroes and villains, and they are so tightly woven into the American fabric of society. But rarely has sport achieved such an honorific position as to what the NFL recently accomplished.

Strength in our culture is usually measured in terms of what a person "can take", especially in the sports world. It's never measured in pink.

For all the games in week four of the NFL season, players, coaches, and game officials were asked to wear pink in support of breast cancer awareness month. The vast majority of them did so. They wore pink shoes, cleats, soles, arm bands, etc. These items are being collected and marked by the player's name, etc, and will be auctioned off at a later date with the proceeds going to help in researching a cure for breast cancer.

Sometimes we forget the strength it takes to love and care, and we forget that a man is made of more than just the physical ability to play a sport. For these men who play such a violent game to wear pink on national television reveals the strength they have to show their love and respect. They showed it to our moms, wives, sisters, daughters, relatives, friends and neighbors. They showed it to the memory of those we've lost to this horrible disease.

The men of the NFL have shown us that while it's one thing to enjoy the lifestyle of the professional athlete, it's quite another to symbolically kneel down on national tv and say to the women of our country that they are the most important

METRO ANE SPORTS

Auld, looks solid, that's the good news. Turco still looks like the Turco of last year, meaning a sieve letting pucks in the net, and that's truly not good news.

There isn't anyone out there that can convince me that any player in any sport that has 80 plus games a year can have a season long slump. That ain't no normal slump, that's something wrong in his noggin.

In Crawford's new system the goalie is going to be exposed more simply because of the attacking nature of it. But while the team is still learning to function with it, the goalies going to be more exposed than usual. Prior to last year Turco could handle it. Now, well, it just doesn't look like it, does it.

Still, this is actually gonna be a fun year, probably cause a few ulcers here and there, but you can best believe it's gonna be a blast. Morrow's still getting back into game shape, but you can tell he's hungrier than a bear that's just woke up from month's long hibernation.

We got great young players like Neal and Eriksson who really want to push pucks into the net, but the burden this year's gonna be on the money players. Richards, Ribeiro, Morrow, and Turco are the top paid guys on this team, and they've got to bring it. Turco's questionable, obviously, but the other three are studs in different roles and they are the new face and core of this franchise.

Let's get the NFL on with a review of week 5.

First let's gripe it up over what we're forced to watch. Is there some kinda rule that says we HAVE to watch all NFC East teams play? I mean, what idiot chose the Raiders at Giants for the other broadcast? That's just purely Grade A stupid. If you don't know that game was gonna be a dud, and that the Bengals at Ravens was gonna be a great battle, then you don't need to be making programming decisions.

Did you notice that Cleveland and Buffalo are in a stifling competition to replace the Raiders as champs of the cellar? Horrible. Hey, did you see the Lions rally and come back against the Steelers? Detroit's actually getting better. The Rams are trying to get better but so far all's they know how to spell is butter, they're too soft. And to round it out, the Buc's are gonna do worse than predicted, and that was already bad.

Who do you think'll get fired first? It's a trifecta: the Redskins Zorn, the Raiders Cable, although he might have to be fired while sitting in a cell, and Buffalo's Jauron.

I hate to do it but I gotta give props to the Bronco's. Do I believe that offense yet? No. Do I believe that defense? Yeah, that's football those guys are playin'.

NFL Week 6

Bye teams: Cowboys, Colts, Dolphins, and 49ers.

Noon games:

Here's four that you'd rather spend time changing out a garbage disposal than watch: Browns (1-4, road 1-2) at Steelers (3-2, home 2-0), Chiefs (0-5) at Redskins (2-3, home 2-0), Panthers (1-3, road 0-2) at Buc's (0-5), and Rams (0-5) at Jags (2-3, home 1-1).

A better game than many ever thought and should be fun: Lions (1-4, road 0-2) at Packers (2-2, home 1-1). Maybe Stafford's back.

And these three are what Sunday football games are all about: Texans (2-3, road 1-1) at Bengals (4-1, home 1-1), Ravens (3-2, road 1-1) at Steelers (3-2, home 2-0), and Giants (5-0, road 3-0) at Saints (4-0, home 2-0).

3 o'clock games

Two lopsided stinkers with no prospect of an upset: Bills (1-4, road 0-2) at Jets (3-1, home 2-0), and Eagles (3-1, road 1-0) at Raiders (1-4, home 0-2).

One stinker with a possible shot at an upset: Titans (0-5, road 0-3) at Patriots (3-2, home 3-0). Tennessee is better than their record. And to top off a lousy afternoon section, another non game but at least has somewhat of a chance to be interesting: Cardinals (2-2, road 1-0) at Seahawks (2-3, home 2-1).

7:30 game

This one is what football is all about: Bears (3-1, road 1-1) at Falcons (3-1, home 2-0). You got two very good defenses, the Falcons solid offense, and the Bears surprising offense.

Monday Night Football

This one sure didn't start out on anybody's radar: Bronco's (5-0, road 2-0) at Chargers (2-2, home 1-1). People are only now beginning to believe Denver and San Diego has a history of starting slow. For an AFC divisional matchup, this is gonna be a goodie.

Readers Response:

Two Dogs:

The Dallas Stars bring in Mike Ribeiro to be the heir to Modano's throne and so far he can't take over the top line. What a bust. Crawford and Nieuwendyk need to get rid of all the older guys and rebuild from the bottom up.

Gregg

Oklahoma City

Gregg:

Assists in hockey are so important that they are included in the players total points earned. Football doesn't have assists. Baseball doesn't consider them, and basketball counts them as a statistic but not part of the players point total. Ribeiro is one of the top assist men in the league. He's got great vision of the ice and uncanny awareness of where players are, and the man can make a pass with a puck through traffic. In last week's OT loss to the Canucks, he tied the game late in the third with a pass across ice in front of their net with three, count 'em, three players between him and Benn, who then planted the puck in the back of the net. The only players I would trade Ribeiro for would be somebody of the Crosby level. Yeah, he's that good. The last thing they need to do is gut this team, just put in the new system then find out what you need.

TD

Two Dogs:

I don't care that we FINALLY beat Kansas City, this team sucks and it's because of the Coaching. Get rid of Phillips and bring in Shanahan then we'll see some motivation.

Eric

Little Rock

Eric:

It'd be nice if you did some homework. After Elway's second Super Bowl he retired and Shanahan hasn't done squat since. His defenses for the last several years were at best lower tier, they were lousy. Cutler wudda done great had he the defense that Orton has today. But then, Cutler's doing a far better job in Chicago than Orton ever thought of. Ex 49er head Coach Mike Nolan scrapped the old D and brought in the 3-4, and the team brought in some solid free agents to run it. All of Denver's success has been based on what that defense has been able to do this season. No, Shanahan is NOT the answer to this Cowboys team. By the way, it's only five games into the season, really a tad early to start calling for anybody's head.

TD

Two Dogs:

You dorks in Dallas have no idea what's going on. Since you guys have the Dallas Cowpies you don't know what a REAL football team is. Falcons are AMERICAS TEAM.

Hal

Atlanta

Hal:

In the ten years Dallas has been absent the playoffs just what have the Falcons done to catch them in number of playoff appearances, playoff wins, division titles, conference titles, Super Bowl appearances, and Super Bowl wins? Nada, that's what. And, OUR Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders have their own TV show, not so your little birdie gurlies.

Pole Dance Doll

The keywords on the box read "Interesting," "Flash," and "Up and Down," which sound like they were written by the happiest pedophile in playland.

Shave The Baby

So many questions...

- 1) Why does this baby have so much pubic hair?
- 2) Why does this baby have hair suspenders?
- 3) Why does this baby have hairy ankles?

Bottom line: Most babies don't need shaving and encouraging that is creepy.

Kid's Nipple Tassle T-Shirt

Available in "nipper sizes" 0-6 months, 6-12 months. Shudder.

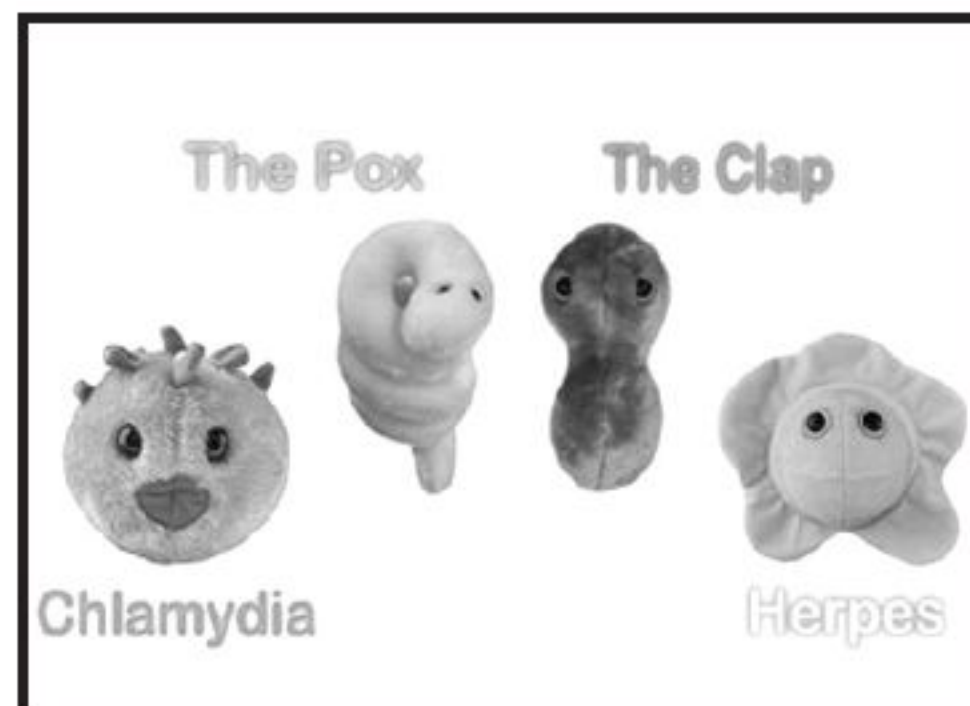

Baby Glutton

Spanish toymaker Berjuan released a doll that allows children to "breast-feed" their babies. A girl wears a special halter top with flowers instead of nipples that cause the baby to make sucking sounds and move its mouth. The tagline for the toy reads, "Because you shouldn't have to wait until you have breasts before you start breastfeeding your baby." We think you should.

Stuffed STDs

"My child has herpes!" If that's something you'd like to yell without your child actually being infected with a venereal disease then these plushies are for you... you weirdo.

Baby Stilettos

Finally! Baby stilettos have hit the market to give those unsightly flab-filled baby calves some lift. They will be useful for the girls who loved the pole-dancing doll and moved on to this.

Toy Tattoo Gun

The GR8 TaT2 Maker by Spin Master Toys promises an "easy-to-use tattoo maker kit...[that] creates realistic, washable designs with dramatic effects." If only there was a plushy for Hepatitis.

Probably The Most Redneck Trike Ever

Have a motorcycle without an engine. How about a running Ford Escort with T-bone-itis? Need to get you're 80s three-wheeler trailered somewhere? Boy have we got a solution for you. Feast your eyes on this camouflaged Escort trike.

This beast was spotted in Amite county Mississippi, where curious onlookers couldn't help but gape in a combination of awe, wonder, and fear. The builder is no-doubt a strong contender for the upcoming Redneck of the Year Awards, and rightly so, it takes a certain kind of genius to chop the entire center section of a Ford escort out, weld the front and back together, then affix a motorcycle frame to the front end. Not only is this thing put together with a disturbingly high level of quality, it's probably pretty fast too — note the spoiler on the hood/trunk to keep things stable.

Wisconsin Racer Honored With Final Run Down Drag Strip In Hearse

Jerome Miller loved drag racing, running an AMC Concord until he was 56 and attending races religiously until his death. His family arranged to have his hearse make one final run down his home track — his casket on board.

Miller was a racer from the start, joining the ranks of drag racers in the 1950s and racing at various levels for forty years. He took time off to raise a family, and took his boys to the track on almost every weekend there was racing, lending a hand and talking cars with all who would have it. When the nest emptied, he ran an AMC Concord until an aneurysm limited his sight, and even then he kept going to the track, even attending the Labor Day races this year. He was considered a pillar of the racing community at Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wisconsin. He died last Tuesday, and as a fitting tribute, his family arranged to have the hearse bearing his casket take him on one last run down strip. The time wasn't great, 45 seconds at 27 mph, but a fellow racer, upon discovering what was going on, said "So they took him on his last pass. Cool. That's cool."

Wrist-Mounted iPhone Case For Motorcycle Riders

This waterproof wrist-mounted (or handlebar-mounted) case is just about the only way you could hope to use your favorite phone on a bike. You obviously aren't going to be able to have your hands free enough to operate it, so the hard plastic case isn't going to allow you to take advantage of the touchscreen. It does have an optional battery pack that will allow you to use functions like GPS without leaving your battery dead when you reach your destination. You can also purchase a separate headset that will allow you to talk on the phone through your helmet. The case itself is going to set you back about $57, or you can get a bundle with the headset and case for $85. If you want the battery back as well, all three items together will run $159. <http://www.soeasygps.com>

The miraculous Cassette Tape Measure will make you question why you've spent so much of your life measuring with soul-stealing tape rulers that have little or nothing to do with rock and roll.

The Cassette Tape Measure comes with inches and metric units. Nine feet long. We're not implying a superiority of one system or another.

However, the Metric system - no offense - feels like an electronic or trip-hop kinda vibe. Which is fine.

Power Cords Are So '90s

Leap into the future of wireless device-charging with Powermat. Their Home & Office Mat (pictured) charges up to 3 devices at once. And when one is finished, the mat stops charging just that one. We think that's just wonderful.

Just enable your device(s) with a Powermat receiver (that seamlessly bonds to your device), pop it on the mat, and your new cordless life will ensue.

A magnetic attraction between every receiver and each access point on every mat assures that alignment is precise and the most efficient charging will occur—it'll be as fast or faster than the original power adapter.

The mat delivers an exact amount of power for the proper length of time so that the transfer of power is safe and efficient and no energy is ever wasted, aka, it's nice to the environment.

A USB connection is available on every mat for legacy devices providing another source for power rather than finding an additional power outlet.

Happy cordless charging with your mat of the future!

Couple Face Cane Over Car Sex

An Islamic court has ordered an unmarried couple to be caned for trying to have sex in a car in the latest of a series of harsh punishments for Muslims in Malaysia, a lawyer says.

The Shariah High Court in central Selangor state sentenced the couple on Wednesday to six strokes of the cane after they pleaded guilty to trying to have sex out of wedlock in their car, lawyer Shafezan Rusli said on Friday.

Shafezan said Islamic religious police caught Mohamad Shahrin Abdul Majid, 29, and Nadiah Najat Hussin, 24, with only their undergarments on in a car at an office parking lot in May.

Saudi Sex Braggart Gets 5 Years, 1,000 Lashes

A Saudi court on Wednesday sentenced a man who caused uproar by bragging about his sex life on television to five years in prison and 1,000 lashes, according to Ministry of Information officials.

Mazen Abdul Jawad, a 32-year-old airline employee and divorced father of four, spoke openly about his sexual escapades, his love of sex and losing his virginity at age 14. He made the comments on Lebanese Broadcasting Corporation, which aired the interview a few months ago.

Saudi authorities shut down LBC offices in Jeddah and Riyadh after airing the interview on an episode of its popular show "A Thick Red Line." Jawad was arrested shortly after the program aired and charged with violating Saudi Arabia's crime of publicizing vice.

The episode caused an uproar in deeply conservative Saudi Arabia, where sharia, or Islamic law, is practiced. Pre-marital sex is illegal, and unrelated men and women are not permitted to mingle.

Cops Witness Sex Act, Arrest Man On Drug Charges

Undercover officers seized heroin and arrested a man after they saw him having oral sex with a woman in a hotel parking lot Wednesday night, police said.

Willie Tillman, 49, of Bissell St. was charged with possession of narcotics, possession with intent to sell, tampering with evidence and other charges after the incident in the parking lot of the Sheraton Hotel, 100 East River Drive, police said.

About 10:30 p.m., officers saw what appeared to be a woman performing oral sex on Tillman in a Mercedes Benz in an isolated corner of the parking lot, police said. The two officers were conducting surveillance of the lot because police had received numerous complaints about illegal drug sales and prostitution there. Some drug dealers trade drugs for sex, they said.

As the officers approached the car, Tillman made furtive movements, as if he were trying to hide a gun or drugs, police said. The officers found a packet of .4 grams of heroin in his pocket and what looked like crack cocaine residue on his legs and jacket.

The woman — whom police described as "a self-admitted prostitute" — told police that Tillman had a lot of crack cocaine on him earlier. The two had not agreed on a price for oral sex, she told police, who let her go. The officers never found any crack cocaine.

Former Flight Attendant Sues Oprah Over Sex Claim a former flight attendant on Winfrey's private jet says she was fired after being accused of having sex during a flight in June, and she's filed a federal lawsuit against Winfrey's production company denying the allegations.

Corrine Gehrls alleges that flight attendant Myron Gooch and Winfrey's goddaughter, Kirby Bumpus, made false and defamatory accusations that led to her dismissal.

Gehrls and chief pilot Terry Pansing were fired a short time after the allegations were made, according to the suit, even though they passed polygraph tests about the incident.

The complaint also tosses in the claim that Winfrey and Bumpus were asleep during the June flight after taking sleeping pills.

Neither Oprah nor her Harpo production company is commenting on the suit. The complaint seeks more than $75,000 in damages from Harpo, Gooch, Bumpus.

Man Jailed for Having Sex With Goat

A 40 year-old man has been sentenced to two years imprisonment for attempting to have sexual intercourse with a goat, by a Sharia Court at Riba town in Danko Wasagu Local Government Area of Kebbi State.

The convict, Rabo Mohammed was arrested by a team of policemen on patrol around the stadium in the town.

Prosecuting Police Officer, Idrisu Sule told the court that the accused was arrested with a stolen goat and two kids inside the township stadium while trying to have sexual intercourse with the goat.

The accused who pleaded guilty to the charges told the court that he was involved in the shameful act because of the sexual desire that was burning in him during and after the Ramadan fasting.

He told the court that he was married man with six children and was living in a single room because the other rooms in house had collapsed. He said his mother-in-law was also staying with them which made it not convenient for him to have sex with his wife.

He said: "I could not meet with my wife for a very long time now and that has been disturbing me and I have no money to spend on free women.

He pleaded with the judge to forgive him, promising never to engage in such act again. Delivering judgement, Alhaji Nasiru Zage sentenced him to two years imprisonment or a fine of N20,000 as well as be given 25 strokes of the cane at five different location in the town.

Digital Playground announces the signing of McKenzie Lee to an exclusive contract. Stunning, British babe McKenzie Lee may be the newest Digital Playground contract star, but she brings a wealth of experience and sexual knowledge to the elite company. McKenzie's toned, sexy body and exceptionally perverted desires helped her become AVN's coveted Best New Starlet in 2006. The feisty brunette's reputation for hardcore performances and kinky nature proceeds her wherever she goes. Anything goes for McKenzie Lee, and she is excited to bring her brazen sexual nature to Digital Playground. Booble.com Announces Sunny Lane As Miss Booble 2009

Booble, the Adult Search Engine, has announced that adult performer Sunny Lane is Miss Booble 2009, the winner of the 3rd annual Booble Girl Of The Year.

According to Booble, Sunny competed fiercely this year, turning the first 20 days of the contest into a back-and-forth battle for the lead between herself and fellow porn star Mariah Milano.

The Booble Girl of the Year contest is a run-off between winners from the previous 12 months and is tallied from votes by surfers.

Sunny, a true "girl next door," has grown into great success in adult entertainment, winning AVN and

Gingrich: 'Family Values Porn Fan of the Year'

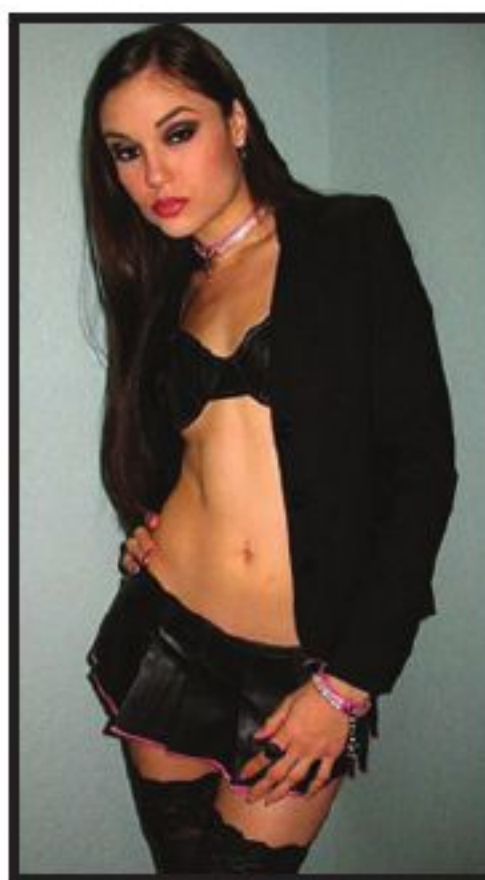

You probably heard about Newt Gingrich's advocacy group, American Solutions for Winning the Future, handing out "awards" to entrepreneurs without doing enough prior research. ASWF gave an "Entrepreneur of the Year" award to a strip club in Dallas, TX, but then took it back when told of the company's, er, specialty. ASWF also sent the same award to Pink Visual, a porn distribution company in California, and, again, rescinded the award when they found out who they'd given it to.

Now the Washington City Paper, reports that Allison Vivas, the owner of Pink Visual, has created an award for ol' Newt: the "Family Values Porn Fan of the Year, 2009." It looks snazzy, and would look great on Gingrich's office wall. Vivas, though, says Newt may not get the chance to hang up his new award: "Of course, we'll send a letter rescinding the award after he receives it."

Sasha Grey to Keynote 2010 AVN Adult Entertainment Expo

Sasha Grey, the 2008 AVN Performer of the Year, author and star of Academy Award-winning director Steven Soderbergh's, The Girlfriend Experience, will present the keynote address at the AVN Adult Entertainment Expo (AEE), Jan 7-10 at the Sands Expo and Convention Center in Las Vegas.

Grey's speech will take place Friday, Jan. 8 at 1:30 p.m. and is open to trade attendees and press only. Immediately following her talk, the Expo will present its always-popular women's session, titled "We Are Women, Hear Us Roar."

Grey, 21, has starred in more than 80 adult films in the past three years, and has won four AVN awards, including the prestigious Female Performer of the Year honor in 2008. She was featured as part of the art work for the Smashing Pumpkins' 2007 album Zeitgeist and included in the 2009 Rolling Stone magazine Hot List. As mentioned, Grey also recently starred in The Girlfriend Experience, which was released May 22 through Magnolia Pictures.

Sun Goddess Malibu SkinworXXX / Adam & Eve

Are you ready for one of the best all girl scenes this year? If so, then you'll get it at the very end of this release. The first three fourth of this release has solo scenes with Teagan Presley, Sasha Grey, Gianna Lynn and Bree Olson. So, thats two blondes and two brunettes. I like that mixture. A fifth girl with red hair would have put this in the "Red Zone". Watching the ladies dance around and get naked is pretty hot for a few minutes, but I get a little bored watching a girl pleasure herself on the screen. Thats better in person.

My favorites ladies on this were Teagan Presley and Sasha Grey. Both of them have that bad girl look to them that I like. Sasha, for a petite girl, has a really juicy ass. Any scene with her ass getting griped or spanked is my favorite.

Oh, I almost forgot the end. So, after each lady has her little solo scene, they all unite near the beach and have a super steamy foursome. Best part of the whole release. They should be able to do live events of stuff like that. That would really help the economy. 3 out 5. -Gil Tha Thrill

Junk In The Trunk Adam & Eve

When I got my latest package from Adam & Eve this was one of the DVD releases that immediately caught my attention. If you've read my reviews before, you know I'm an ass man, so to get this newest release with "Ass-Endowed Gals" really got me excited for the work day to end.

This four hour release has eleven scenes with some nice "baby got back" ladies. One of my favorites is Alexis Texas. If this was the 80's I could see her being a heavy metal lady. She definitely has those bad girl looks and f*cks like one too.

Some of my other favorites on here are Luscoius Lopez, Katja Kassin (I like these dirty european girls), Sarah Vendella (Stop making me feel like a dirty old man, no just kidding. Keep going.), Annette Schwartz (I've been bad mistress. Spank me harder.) and of course the lovely Sunny Lane (The girl next door with the bad girl side). This yummy assfest gets four out of five spankings. - Gil Tha Thrill

The Weekly Adventures Of OJ Tobias

Cops are full of shit. You think they are all about the law and don't have sex or look for hookers but, apparently they do. I would like to think all the different North Texas agencies that showed up for my show at the Improv saw my column and knew exactly where I would be drunk that night, and were probably looking for a place to have a good time

I did not know that seven felony warrants would get the police out like that! Not one motherfker at the Improv thanked me for getting such a huge turn out. When was the last time you went to a comedy club and there were a hundred people in there? I guess the Improv is stuck up. Sure, the police might have made a mess by knocking over tables and shoving little kids to the floor. And sure, the fifty officers did not pay cover or buy shit, but with that many cops in attendance, no one was worried about being robbed. How often do you really get to be the part of a full fledge raid? It's not every day you see a cop in full SWAT gear, and that shit is entertaining! Sure, the plastic cuffs and having to lay on the floor till your ID goes through sucks. But then again, it's like watching a filming of the TV show Cops.

Of course, Bill was all pissed at me because I was carrying his ID with my picture on it. It took them about four hours to finally figure out that I was not Bill's fraternal twin and that we were not really related. The cops actually had to call his mother to verify that he was an only child. After that, I could not get the cops to believe anything. I tried to tell them I was from the future and that I was a wizard. Unfortunately for me, being drunk and laughing at them did not help at all.

Colleen was there, flirting with me the entire time I was being beaten by the police. She kept yelling, "Hit him again!" She is a nut. She must like kinky shit like that. Poor girl does not understand that's not the way to my heart. The cops knew the way to my heart, because they kicked me in my crotch several times. Guess they don't want me to find love.

How can you, when you're numb from the waist down for a week?

OU Vs. Texas Longhorns Jokes!

Q: How do you starve a Sooner? A: Hide the food stamps under the soap.

Q: What's the difference between Sooner fans and a puppy? A: The puppy eventually stops whining.

Did you hear about the Sooner who was a dyslexic agnostic with insomnia? He laid awake all night wondering if there really is a dog.

Q: How can you tell if a Sooner is a married man? A: There's tobacco juice running down both doors of his pickup.

Q: Why do Oklahoma cheerleaders wear bibs? A: To keep the tobacco juice off their uniforms.

Q: What's the difference between an OU Cheerleader and Bigfoot? A: One's 6 feet tall and hairy.

A woman was walking through her new house in Norman with the contractor.

As they walked through rooms, she told him what color she wanted him to paint each room.

In the bedroom she said, "I think this would be nice in a cream." The contractor stuck his head out of the window and yelled, "GREEN SIDE UP!"

This perplexed the woman. They moved to the living room and she said, I would love rose in this area." Again the contractor strolled over to the window and yelled, "GREEN SIDE UP!"

Again the woman was confused but did not say anything. As they walked into the kitchen she proudly announced that she wanted this room to be, "a glorious shade of mauve." Once again the contractor went to the window and yelled, "GREEN SIDE UP!"

Finally she could not stand this anymore. "What are you shouting GREEN SIDE UP out every window of this house?"

He replied, "I'm sorry. I have a crew of OU football players laying sod across the street."

Albert Einstein goes to a party. He introduces himself to a lady and says, "Hi, I'm Albert Einstein. What's your IQ?" "240," she says. "Great, we can discuss the mysteries of the universe and other things. We have a lot we can talk about," he replies.

Later he is talking with a man and says, "Hi, I'm Albert Einstein. What's your IQ?" "145," he replies. "Great, we can talk about thermodynamics," says Albert.

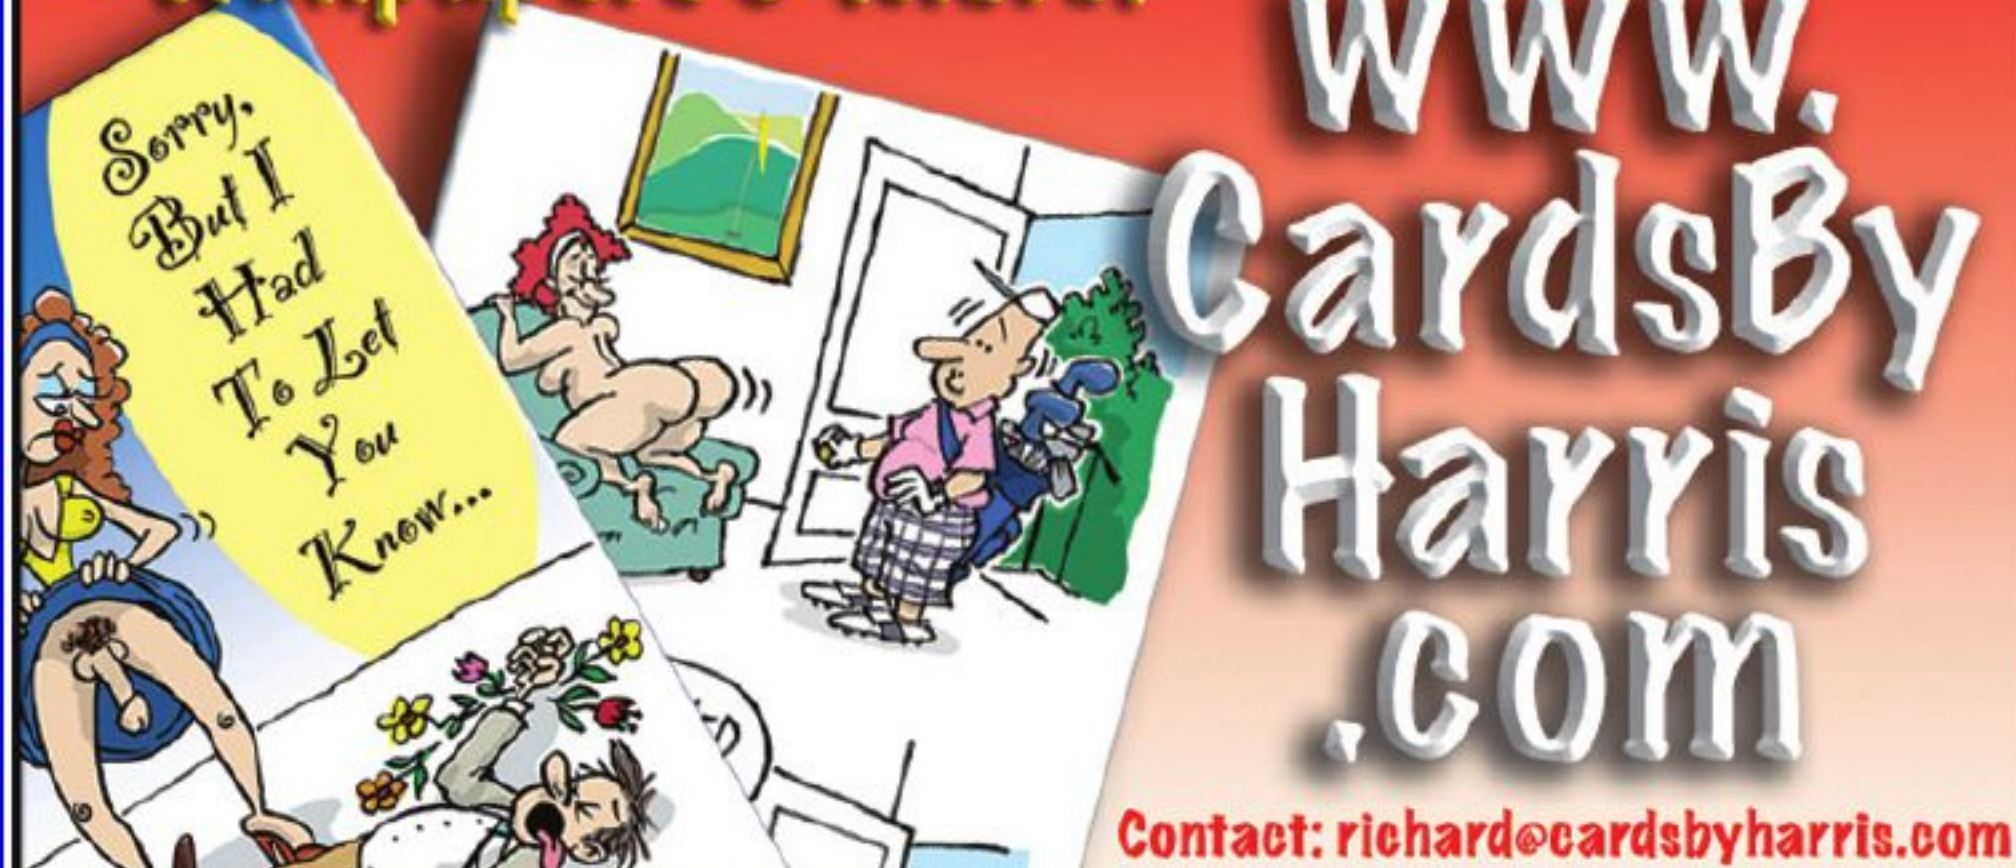

Later he is talking to another gentleman and says, "Hi, I'm Albert Einstein. What's your IQ?" "43," the man manages to say. Einstein gets a puzzled look on his face for a minute then says, "How about them Sooners?"

ED Expo Tradeshaw '09

By: Ms. Misha Moré

The ED Expo Tradeshaw went on for two days with over a hundred interesting Expo exhibitors, including several liquor/vodka/wine companies, night clubs, furniture, lighting, talent and insurance agencies, fashions, printing, magazines, club management groups and many other exciting new vendors and products.

These remarkable set of people make up only a small portion of the growing adult nightclub industry and how the clubs can better serve their clientele and other future customers and that is why this year's expo theme is "Building a Winning Team In Your Club."

The images below is just a sampling of some of the notable exhibitors of the ED Tradeshaw of 2009.

Bra Which Doubles As Gas Mask Wins Whacky Ig Nobel

A woman's bra which in an emergency can double as a pair of gas masks has won one of the awards handed out at the prestigious Harvard University for the year's most eccentric research.

The Ig Nobels, a tongue-in-cheek homage to their Scandinavian counterparts, were announced just days before the Nobel committee in Stockholm began awarding its prestigious awards on Monday.

The bra that can be turned into two protective face masks -- one for the wearer and the other for whoever else may need one -- won its inventors Elena Bodnar, Raphael Lee and Sandra Marijan of Chicago the Public Health award.

The patent states that each of the bra's cup sections is fitted with a filter device, meaning the wearer can whip it off, and detach each section to fit it over the face.

Another Ig Nobel for Chemistry went to three researchers at the Universidad Autonoma de Mexico -- Javier Morales, Miguel Apatiga and Victor Castano -- for creating diamonds out of tequila.

The literature prize at Thursday's ceremony went to the Irish police for writing out more than 50 traffic tickets to one Prawo Jazdy, whose name in Polish means "driver's license."

Stephan Bollinger and other doctors at the University of Bern in Switzerland received the peace prize for demonstrating that empty beer bottles are more likely to crack heads in a bar-room brawl than full ones.

The Veterinary Medicine prize was conferred on two researchers from Newcastle University in Britain who discovered that cows with names produce more milk.

The Igs, as they are known, are chosen by the Annals of Improbable Research magazine to highlight scientific achievements that according to its website "first make people laugh and then make them think."

Police: Pa. Woman Put Stolen Check In Church Plate

Police said a woman put a forged $50 check in a church offering plate and stole a woman's wallet from a pew in the same western Pennsylvania church. New Brighton police Chief Charles Van Fossan said Tuesday that police were still searching for a 20-year-old woman. She allegedly committed the crimes at First Presbyterian Church in New Brighton on Sunday.

Police said the offering check was from a previously stolen checkbook.

The woman used a credit card from the stolen wallet to buy about $200 worth of merchandise from a dollar store and a convenience store. Police said the woman also tried to use a credit card stolen from another church to get a $16,000 cash advance that a bank refused to issue.

The Old Sharpie-Drawn-Penis-On-the-Drunk Taken Further

Remember the girl who complained that she asked for a few tattooed stars on her face and then got more than she said she asked for? Kimberly Vlamincik said she fell asleep and awoke to a face full of regret. She later recanted saying she did ask for the 56 stars she received.

Well, move over bacon. Now there's something meatier. A Swedish man drank a bottle of vodka and woke up to a tattoo of a penis (one equipped with four testicles) on his leg. The 27-year-old was "lured" by a tattoo artist who overheard his wish for a drunk tattoo at a nearby diner. The tattoo artist told him he'd do it as long as he had free rein over the piece. Joel, the man with the new tattoo, said that he has not bathed in public all summer because he worried what his mother would think. Joel's mom doesn't seem to mind that he bathes in public.

Marge Simpson Makes Cover Of Playboy

"D'oh!" doesn't even start to cover it. Marge Simpson -- the blue beehived matriarch of America's most loved dysfunctional family -- is Playboy magazine's November cover, the magazine said on Friday.

Simpson, tastefully concealing her assets behind a signature Playboy Bunny chair, is the first cartoon character ever to front the glossy adult magazine, joining the ranks of sex symbols like Marilyn Monroe and Cindy Crawford.

Playboy said the cover and a three-page picture spread inside was a celebration of the 20th anniversary of the "The Simpsons" and part of a plan to appeal to a younger generation of readers.

Officials: Food Stamps Swapped For Booze, Porn And Viagra

Viagra and pornography are not staples on the government's food stamp list. But authorities say a Detroit liquor store supplied them during a series of illegal deals.

Federal prosecutors filed fraud charges this week against three people who worked at Jefferson's Liquor Palace.

The alleged scheme worked this way: Food stamp recipients would get cash from the store in exchange for swiping larger amounts off their electronic cards. The store would then be reimbursed by the U.S. Agriculture Department.

And in some transactions, the government says the store provided informants Viagra, liquor and porn in exchange for swiping about $2,000 off food stamp cards. The government says fraud at the store topped $130,000 over 2 1/2 years. The store is closed.

Hundreds Gather To Hear Gay Marine In Memphis

About 260 people rallied Sunday to protest the destruction of a billboard that featured a former gay marine in Memphis.

The billboard, one of five paid for by the Memphis Gay and Lesbian Community Center (MGLCC), featured Tim Smith with the caption "I'm gay and I protected your freedom." The billboards are part of an awareness campaign for National Coming Out Day, the October 11 event during which gay men and lesbians are encouraged to come out to a friend, family member or co-worker.

Hundreds came to hear what Smith had to say.

"My career came to an end in the Marine Corps because of a prejudice and a hateful and unnecessary policy colliding with a hateful act on the part of a minister. I think it's very important for us in the community to understand that our enemy is not people that are straight, our enemy is not people who are necessarily conservative, our enemy is not necessarily the church. Our enemy is ignorance. Our enemy is misunderstanding," Smith told a cheering crowd inside the First Congregational Church, just blocks from the center.

Smith was drummed out of the Marines under the military policy that bans gay men and lesbians from serving openly, known as "don't ask, don't tell." His sexuality was not a problem until a minister took it upon himself to press the issue, he said.

"A former head of the Chaplain corps retired and became a local minister and when I refused his help to enter a change ministry he pushed my command to discharge me from the Marine corps," Smith told the radio program The Takeaway.

The billboard featuring Smith was replaced Thursday, Batts added.

French Gay Soccer Team Snubbed By Muslim Team

A French gay soccer team says its members were victims of homophobia when a team of Muslim players refused to play a match against them.

The Paris Foot Gay team says Tuesday it received an e-mail from the Creteil Bebel club canceling a match scheduled for last Sunday.

"Because of the principles of our team, which is a team of devout Muslims, we can't play against you," the e-mail said, according to Paris Foot Gay. The e-mail received Saturday said, "Our convictions are much more important than a simple football match."

Zahir Belgarbi, identified as a spokesman for Creteil Bebel, told France-Info radio he apologized if "anyone felt upset or hurt."

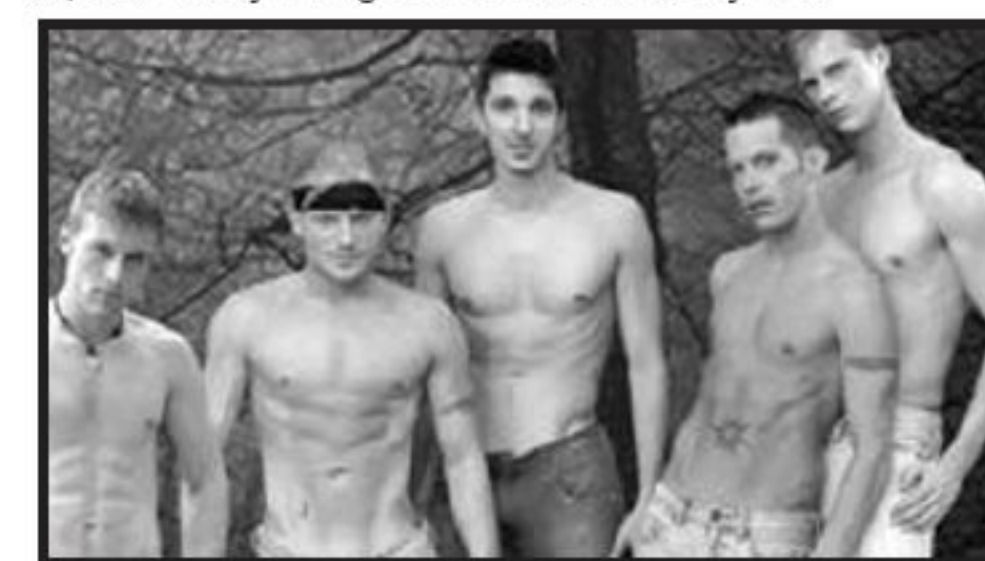

ASG to Release Gay Adult Tribute To Classic Horror Flick

ASG Entertainment is prepping a new release in time for Halloween. According to director Angel Skye, Halloween: Friday the Fuckteenth is not meant to follow in the celluloid footsteps of recent porno spoofs of mainstream classics, but instead to provide tribute to Skye's love of horror flicks and his home state of New Jersey.

According to Skye, the story takes place at Camp Crystal Lake, the New Jersey location of the original mainstream cult film, Friday the 13th. A patient has escaped from an Essex County mental institution—a dangerous patient responsible for the deaths of his parents...and soon, all his former friends. The crazed killer lures his gay buddies to what is supposed to be a wild weekend at the camp, but instead of engaging in lighthearted romps in the woods, people are drowned, strangled, stabbed and disposed of in a variety of other ways. Those who remain alive are tasked with discovering who is doing what to whom, and how.

"The plot is a bit on the violent side," Skye said. "People will die and blood will be shed in this movie, but everyone gets laid before they die."

The gay adult flick stars Kurt Wild, Dallas Reeves, Shane Frost, Brad Star, Sean Preston, Luke Riley "and some fresh faces," according to Skye.

Fans may visit FallenAngel1281.blogspot.com for trailers and behind-the-scenes vignettes. For more information about ASG Entertainment, visit <http://ASGEI.com>. Halloween: Friday the Fuckteenth is due for release Oct. 19.

Thousands Descend On D.C. To Support Gay Rights

In the words of Barney Frank it was an enormous "emotional release" Sunday as thousands of gay rights activist took to the streets of Washington D.C. to press lawmakers to act on gay rights legislation.

The marchers were squarely aiming for President Barack Obama, who renewed his promise to end the military's ban on open gay service in a speech to 3,000 gay activists at Saturday's Human Rights Campaign (HRC) fundraiser in Washington.

But the crowd on Sunday was clearly unimpressed with the president's latest offering that spelled out nothing new and offered few specifics.

"I'm sorry, but I didn't like your speech," Billie Myers, a musician, told a cheering crowd, The New York Times reported.

Marchers were younger — reported to be in their 20s and 30s — than the politically connected $500-a-plate gay activist, who, collectively, gave Obama a standing ovation Saturday. They're also less patient, more vocal and unwilling to give the president the benefit of the doubt.

There were not official estimates of the size of the crowd. Unofficial estimates ranged from 20,000 all the way up to 100,000.
